Giftle's Thoughts

First and foremost

We believe that we can reduce the pollution and waste from electrical devices while extending the life of functional equipment. Our service allows linking donors and beneficiaries, Giftle ensures the data security and the transport.

Donors are often faced with the need to renew their obsolete but functional electronic equipment. These donors are sensitive to the problems associated with the pollution of new technology and wish to give their devices a second life.

Beneficiaries have the opportunity to obtain viable equipment adapted to their use, as they do not necessarily have access to the latest generation equipment or do not need it. Through this initiative, they also contribute to the recycling of digital equipment.
